

Topic 48: In your opinion, is English a global language?

In my opinion, English is a global language. I think so because of people who don't have the same language, country often communicate in English and almost texts and documents are used in English. Why has English become popular? I think there are the following reasons, which is the British colonization of the world of, they brought language and culture to the colonies. Additionally, developed countries around the world also use English as their official language such as the United State, UK, Australia, Singapore.... Finally, English is quite easy to learn and accessible to most people. For myself, I'm trying to learn English so that I can communicate and work in English for both my job and studies.
